The Unrecognized Health Disparity and Actionable Steps to Address It

Tobacco use/tobacco smoke exposure is the leading preventable cause of death and disease, but it does not affect populations equally. This program will highlight tobacco as an unrecognized health disparity. A panel discussion will follow. This program will be dedicated to the memory of Regina Whitmore, MPH, Director of the AAP Division of Tobacco Control/Julius B. Richmond Center of Excellence from 2011-2015.
